I release from liability any employer, person, agency, organization, or employee supplying information regarding me or my previous employment. I also release TriMet from liability which may result from making any investigation of information provided in the application materials or in connection with my employment application.

I understand that this application is not intended to be a contract of employment. I also understand that if TriMet employs me, TriMet may terminate my employment with or without cause during my probationary period of employment and, if hired into a non-union position, at any time during my employment. If my application is for a position that requires a post-offer medical examination or drug screen, I understand that employment is conditioned upon satisfying the requirements of those examinations or drug screens.

I represent that all information on this application is accurate, complete, and true to the best of my knowledge. I understand that TriMet will rely on the information provided in this application in making a decision about my employment, and that falsification, misrepresentation, or omission of information on my application may result in disqualification of my application or my dismissal from employment if I am employed and TriMet subsequently learns of the falsification, misrepresentation, or omission of information.

By signing, I hereby acknowledge, accept, and certify as true and correct the foregoing statements.

Disclosure Statement and Authorization of Release of Records

Disclosure: A consumer report containing your personal information may be obtained for consideration of employment with TriMet.

I have carefully read the Fair Credit Reporting Act information in connection with my employment and/or promotion with TriMet. I understand that by signing or initialing, I am indicating my consent for TriMet to obtain a report from a consumer-reporting agency for use regarding my possible employment or promotion.

I understand that if information from a report obtained by a consumer reporting agency is utilized in any way in making an adverse decision about my potential employment and/or promotion, before making the adverse decision TriMet will provide me with a copy of the consumer report and a description, in writing, of my rights under the Federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA). I understand that the FCRA gives me specific rights in dealing with consumer reporting agencies.

By my signature or initials below I further understand that I am waiving my right of privacy in connection with any investigation of information for the consumer report, and I release and hold harmless TriMet and any companies or persons who perform the investigation from any liability in connection with that investigation and report. A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.ftc.gov/credit or write to: Consumer Response Center, Room 130-A, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.
- You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your “file disclosure”). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:
 - a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
 - you are the victim of identity theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
 - your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
 - you are on public assistance;
 - you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days. In addition, by September 2005 all consumers will be entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.ftc.gov/credit for additional information.
- You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.ftc.gov/credit for an explanation of dispute procedures.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.
- Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need -- usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.
- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.ftc.gov/credit.

- You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited “prescreened” offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt-out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-5-OPTOUT (1-888-567-8688).
- You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.
- Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.ftc.gov/credit.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. Federal enforcers are:
